

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

INDEX

TO THE HUNDREDTH VOLUME OF THE North American Review.

- America* and England, article on, 331-346,
— the American people morally superior to the population of any foreign country, owing to the more general diffusion of wealth and education, and to the character of our social and political institutions, 331, 332 — this superiority should be more distinctly recognized by themselves, for upon the moral principles of the people depends the character of their politics and political relations, 332, 333 — late events have shown the necessity of raising the standard of morality, — this insisted upon with reference to the relations between England and the United States, 334, 335 — reasons for our distrust of England, 335 — efforts of sympathizers with Rebellion to augment this distrust thwarted, but not rendered wholly nugatory, 336, 337 — hostility of the English press, search for precedents by both sides, exhibitions of rancor by distinguished men, — all these illustrate a spirit dangerous to the highest interests of the country, 337, 338 — Mr. Adams's statement of British sentiment toward this country, 338, 339 — causes of British hostility, 339, 340 — losses inflicted by privateers sailing from British ports, 340, 341 — war with England an unspeakable calamity for both nations, would make every Englishman a hater of republican institutions, 342 — the material effect on ourselves of such a war, 343 — other ways of vengeance, 343, 344 — our true war policy the policy of peace, 344, 345 — we should show our moral superiority by manifesting a dignified generosity which avoids quarrels, 345 — it is for us to show that as no government is more strong than a democracy, so none is more stable, 346.
- Arey*, Henry W., his Girard College and its Founder, 70-101.
- Art*, Sacred and Legendary, Mrs. Jameson's, 267, 268.
- Atlas*, Johnson's New Illustrated Family, Fisher's, 625, 626.
- Austin*, John, his Lectures on Jurisprudence, reviewed, 246-253.
- Azarian*, Miss Prescott's, 268-277.
- Bacon*, Francis, the Works of, Vol. X., 266, 267.
- Baschet*, Armand, his Venetian Diplomacy, 54-69.
- Boutell*, Charles, M. A., his Manual of Heraldry, 186-194.
- Bright*, William, his System of Grape Culture, 522-539.
- Cape Cod*, the History of, Freeman's, Vol.
I., 244-246.
- Chittenden*, L. E., Report of the Peace Conference, 233-241.
- Church*, the Early, and Slavery, article on, 21-53 — the teachings of Christ as to interference with the existing organization of society, 22 — Roman slavery before the Christian era, 22-28 — the opinions of the early Christians on slavery, 28-33 — laws concerning slavery, 33-36 — the influence of the Church alone mitigated the hardships of the slave, 36, 37 — the Justinian code on slavery, 37-39 — slavery among the Barbarians, 40-42 — the protecting influence of the Church, 42-44 — the tendency of Church doctrines toward universal emancipation, 44, 45 — various ecclesiastical measures in relation to slavery, 46-49 — rights of slaves in the Church, 50-52.
- Comparative Anatomy*, Lectures on, Hux-ley's, 290-298.
- Cooke*, Prof. Josiah P., his Lectures on Religion and Chemistry, reviewed, 177-185.
- Curwin*, Samuel, Journal and Letters of, 288, 289.
- Democracy*, Aristocratic Opinions of, article on, 194-232 — the controversy be-

- tween democrats and oligarchists as affected by the American war, 194-196 — grounds of the hostility to democracy, 196, 197 — the opinions of the thinking opponents of democracy, 197-199 — opinion of a conservative American of changes in American society, 199-201 — the influx of foreigners, 202-205 — the European theory, M. de Tocqueville and Mr. Mill, 205-209 — the "frontier life," 209 — "the principle of equality" in the Northern Colonies, 209, 210 — two theories of democratic progress, and the case of Australia, 210, 211 — what gave democracy in America its first impulse, 212, 213 — the examples of other nationalities, 213, 214 — effect of the Revolutionary struggle in America, and the distribution of population, 214-216 — the resulting state of society, 216-218 — the doctrine that one generation cannot bind the next, 219, 220 — effect of democracy on the style of writing and speaking, 220-222 — the position of the West, 222-225 — the doctrine that men are of equal value in the eyes of the Creator, 225, 226 — apprehension that democracy discourages æsthetic culture unfounded, 226-228 — as shown by the records of literature, 228-231 — achievements of the aristocracy and the democracy compared, 281, 232.
- De Voe*, Thomas F., The Market-Book, 307, 308.
- Dictionary of the English Language*, Webster's, 299-302.
- Dissertations and Discussions*, Mill's, Vol. I., 259-266.
- Dodge*, M. E., Irvington Stories, 304.
- Doran*, Dr., F. S. A., Annals of the English Stage, 304.
- Eliana*, 284-287.
- Emily Chester*, 279-284.
- England and America*, Lecture on, 331-346.
- English Stage*, Annals of, Dr. Doran's, 304.
- Essence of Christianity*, Guizot's Meditations on, 600-602.
- Everett*, Mr., Death of, article on, 560-564 — the North American Review owes a tribute to the memory of one of its chief founders and supporters, 560 — rapid sketch of his life and honors, 560, 561 — his mental characteristics, 561 — he was more useful in the sphere he occupied than he could have been elsewhere, 562 — his politics were truly American, 562, 563 — his rank as an orator, 563, 564 — his political opinions and his patriotism, 564.
- Familiar Letters from Europe*, Felton's, 287, 288.
- Felton*, C. C., Familiar Letters From Europe, 287, 288.
- Financial Policy*, our, Examination of, 605-613.
- Fisher*, R. S., Johnson's New Illustrated Family Atlas, 625, 626.
- Fletcher*, Governor Thomas C., his Message to the Missouri Legislature, 476-508.
- Forces*, the Correlation and Conservation of, Youmans's, 616-622.
- Forsyth*, William, his Life of Cicero, 101-126.
- France*, Martin's History of, 594-600.
- Freeman*, Frederick, History of Cape Cod, 244-246.
- Free Missouri*, article on, 476-508. Climatic and geographical advantages of Missouri, 476, 490 — its advantages for internal commerce, railroads and the river system, 491, 494 — the stifling effect of slavery upon a people, 494, 495 — the new life in freedom, 495, 496 — the sentiment against slavery will become universal, 496, 499 — what intensified the pro-slavery sentiment of the State, 499, 500 — old quarrels will not survive, 501 — Missouri as a Slave State, 502, 503 — the change real, 503, 504 — the present danger to the State, 505 — the ultimate effect of the war upon Missouri, 506-508.
- Fuller*, Andrew S., his Treatise on Cultivation of the Grape, 522-539.
- Girard College and its Founder*, article on, 70-101 — personal appearance and mode of life of Girard in his old age, 70-72 — his birth and early life, 72-75 — his start in business in Philadelphia, and his marriage, 75-77 — his labors during the yellow fever of 1793, 78-82 — his business career and business habits, 82, 83 — Girard's Bank, 84, 85 — his devotion to business, 86-88 — the drawing of his will, 88-91 — the reading of the will, 92, 93 — how the trust has been administered, 93-96 — the government of the College, 96, 97 — plan for the management of the institution under discussion, 97-99 — how to make the resources of the College most effective, 99-101.
- Grant*, C. W., his Manual of the Vine, 522-539.
- Grimm*, Jacob, 390-422 — his rank as a scientific man, 390 — his early life and education, 391, 392 — obtains an appointment in the War Department of Cassel, 393 — appointed librarian to the King of Westphalia, 394 — appointed Auditor in the Council of State, 394, 395 — after the flight of Jerome in 1813, he remains at Cassel, 395 — nominated under the restored regime Secretary of Legation to the Hessian Envoy, he visits Paris for the second time, 396 — returns home and is appointed second librarian, 397 — his first published works, 398 — his literary association with his brother, 398, 399 — publication of his German Grammar, 400-401 — his work on Le-

- gal Antiquities, 401, 402 — works of William Grimm, 402 — is appointed Librarian and Professor to the University of Göttingen, 403 — the style of his lectures, 404 — his literary labors at this time, 404 — 406 — abolition of the liberal constitution, 406 — the brothers Grimm, with others, protest against the act, and are banished, 406, 407 — they are invited to Berlin as members of the Royal Academy, 408 — Bettina von Arnim, 408, 409 — domestic matters, 409 — Jacob's literary habits, 409, 410 — the tender mutual attachment of the brothers, 410 — 412 — their patriotic spirit, 412, 413 — death of William, 413 — the German Dictionary, 415 — 417 — Jacob's political opinions, 418 — two remarkable discourses, 419, 420 — Jacob Grimm's writings, 420, 421 — his death, 422.
- Guizot*, M., Meditations on the Essence of Christianity, 600 — 602.
- Harper's Weekly*, 623 — 625.
- Heraldry* in New England, article on, 186 — 194 — genealogical zeal in New England, 186 — explanation of heraldic terms, 187 — coats of arms in New England families, 188 — 191 — the testimony of engravings and paintings, 191, 192 — number of families using coats of arms during the Colonial period, 193 — an Armorial of New England, 194, 195.
- Hucley*, Thomas Henry, Lectures on Comparative Anatomy, 290, 298.
- Icones Muscorum*, Sullivant's, 298, 299.
- International Law*, Introduction to the Study of, Woolsey's, 253 — 259.
- Irvington Stories*, the, 304.
- Jameson*, Mrs., Sacred and Legendary Art, and Legends of the Monastic Orders, 267, 268.
- Jews*, History of the, Milman's, 581 — 585.
- Jurisprudence*, the Province of, Austin's, 246 — 253.
- Language*, Lectures on the Science of, Müller's, 565 — 581.
- Lincoln*, Abraham, article on, 1 — 21 — difficult to form a judgment of his first administration, 2 — the duty of Mr. Lincoln in his second term, 3, 4 — his confidence in the people, 4, 5 — his opposition to slavery, 6, 7 — his Message to Congress, December 1861, 8 — 10 — objections to his fitness to rule the nation, 11, 12 — the judgment of the people has disposed of these objections, 12 — various opinions in respect to Mr. Lincoln's official acts, 13 — the right of the Federal Government to interfere with Slavery, 14 — Mr. Lincoln's views on this question, 15, 16 — his letter to A. G. Hodges, 16, 17 — the importance to the nation of knowing how to conduct its own affairs, 18, 19 — Mr. Lincoln's integrity of purpose, 20 — results of his policy, 20, 21 — his Message on the Peace Negotiations and Inaugural Address, 540 — 559.
- Lindisfarn Chase*, Trollope's, 277, 278.
- Lyra Anglicana*, Rider's, 303, 304.
- Market-Book*, The, De Voe's, 307, 308.
- Martin*, Henri, History of France, 594 — 600.
- McPherson*, Edward, Political History of the Rebellion, 241, 242.
- Memoirs of* Lieut.-Gen. Scott, 242 — 244.
- Merivale*, Charles, his History of the Romans under the Empire, 101 — 126.
- Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States*, History of, Stevens's, 585 — 593.
- Mill*, John Stuart, his Dissertations and Discussions, 194 — 232.
- Milman*, Henry Hart, his History of the Jews, 581 — 585.
- Mitchell*, Donald G., Wet Days at Edgewood, 625 — 629.
- Monastic Orders*, Legends of the, Mrs. Jameson's, 267, 268.
- Müller*, Max, M. A., Lectures on the Science of Language, 565 — 581.
- Natural Theology as a Positive Science*, review of, 177 — 185 — the object of Prof. Cooke's lectures to establish the truth of natural religion from the facts of chemistry, 177 — Paley's conclusion deemed illogical, and why, 179 — 181 — objections allowed by modern writers on natural theology, 181, 182 — Sir William Hamilton's propositions, 182 — the peculiar doctrines of natural theology narrow the faith in final causes, 183, 184 — distinctions, but no contradictions, between scientific and religious ideas, 184.
- Newcomb*, Simon, Examination of our Financial Policy, 605 — 618.
- New England*, History of, during the Stuart Dynasty, review of, 161 — 176 — the creed of the founders of New England, 161, 162 — the inner and the outer view of New England history, 162 — 164 — Puritanism in England, and in New England, 164 — 168 — Puritanism hoping for religious liberty, gave birth to democracy, 168, 169 — many national characteristics traceable to Puritan descent, 169, 170 — the two distributing centres of the English race on this continent, 170 — the district school, 170 — 172 — qualifications of Dr. Palfrey as an historian of New England, 173 — what constitutes the originality of his work, 174.
- Nichols*, John Gould, his Herald and Genealogist, 186 — 194.
- Open Air Grape Culture*, article on, 522 — 539 — early attempts at grape culture in North America, 523 — 525 — the American grape, 525 — the two methods of

- improving grape-stock, that of Van Mons, and that of hybridization, 526-528 — the conditions of successful grape culture, the soil, 530-532 — manures, 532, 533 — setting out vines, 533 — the varieties of the American grape, 533-535 — training and pruning, 536, 537 — the profit of grape culture, 537, 538 — the future of grape culture in New England, 539.
- Peace Conference*, Report of the, Chittenden's, 233-241.
- Perkins*, C. C., Tuscan Sculptors, 602-604.
- Philosophy* of Herbert Spencer, the, article on, 423-476 — reasons of the slow advance of mathematical and inductive sciences for many centuries, and their sudden growth in modern times, 423, 424 — the different philosophical systems on "facts" and "theories," 424, 425 — the difference between ancient and modern science, 426-430 — why science was developed in modern times, 431, 432 — Philosophy, Religion, and the Fine Arts, 432, 433 — the Positivist School, 434 — Mr. Spencer's career, 436 — the tendency of his mind as evidenced by his earlier works, 436-439 — how he reconciles empiricism with psychology, 438-440 — Sir Wm. Hamilton and Jno. Stuart Mill oppose him on different grounds, 440-447 — his argument of social statics, 447 — estimate of his competency to the task he has set himself, 448 — the "law of evolution," 449-455 — the moral character of his speculations, 456 — his use of scientific terms, 456-460 — Equilibration and the Nebular Hypothesis, 460-467 — the classification of the sciences, 467-470 — Mr. Spencer's doctrine of "the unknowable," and his position before the religious world, 470-476.
- Phin*, John, his treatise on Grape Culture, 522-539.
- Prescott*, Harriet E., Azarian, 268-277.
- Raymond*, H. J., his History of President Lincoln's Administration, 1-21.
- Rebellion*, Political History of the, McPherson's, 241, 242.
- Reconstruction*, article on, 540-559 — strength and steadiness of democratic institutions, 540-542 — the people the chief actors in the drama of the war, 542, 543 — charge that the war has been waged, not for the extinction of slavery, but the national aggrandizement, 543-545 — the duties that begin with peace, 545, 546 — effects of the peace negotiations, 546-548 — two facts that will aid in reconstruction, 548, 549 — what is to be done with the negro, 549 — no terms with slavery, 550, 551 — disarming of power for mischief the great slave-holders of the South, the first condition of permanent peace, 551, 552 — assumption by government of the wild lands of the South, and granting them to freedmen, 552, 553 — freedmen should be made voters for reasons of expediency and justice, 553-555 — objections to their enfranchisement, 555, 556 — the duty of liberality and conciliation, 556-558 — the war has been waged with the people of the South, not with the States, and peace must be made with the people, 558 — citizenship is the consequence of freedom, 559.
- Remelin*, Charles, his Vine-dressers' Manual, 522-539.
- Resources*, the National, and their Relation to Foreign Commerce and the Price of Gold, article on, 126-160 — difficulty of negotiating government loans heretofore, 126, 127 — the natural strength in time of peace and of war compared, 127 — the full premium on gold not due to natural business causes, 129 — effect of depreciation of our currency on English markets, and California, 139-141 — singular fact in the course of specie shipments from California, 142, 143 — positive profit resulted from our exportations at inflated prices, 143, 144 — foreign capital in the United States, 148, 149 — no necessity for heavy export of gold since the war, 149-151 — compensations of the war, 152, 153 — general erroneous opinion as to the redundancy of the currency, 153-155 — emigration and immigration, 155, 156 — the actual state of monetary affairs since the war, 156-158 — paper currency has had no injurious consequences that are without their equivalent advantages, 158-160.
- Rider*, Rev. George T., Lyra Anglicana, 303, 304.
- Roman Empire*, the Foundation of, article on, 101-126 — the Roman element in modern civilization, 102, 103 — the gap in Roman history supplied by Mr. Merivale's work, 103, 104 — Julius Cæsar as a friend of liberty, 104-106 — the organization of Roman society, 106-108 — a social revolution, and its causes, 108, 109 — further changes, 110-113 — the position of the aristocracy, 113, 114 — the Roman provinces under pro-consular and pro-pretorian rule, 114, 115 — Marius and Sulla, 115, 116 — Cæsar the only Roman who comprehended the genius and destiny of his nation, 116, 117 — an irreconcilable conflict between the people and the aristocracy, 117, 118 — the overthrow of the latter, and how Cæsar used his victory, 118, 119 — his probable plans, 119, 120 — the state of affairs that followed his death, 120, 121 — the policies of the two Cæsars compared, 121-125.
- Scott*, Lieut.-Gen. Winfield, Memoirs of, 242-244.

- Seer*, The, Leigh Hunt's, 284 - 287.
- Smith*, Goldwin, his Lecture on England and America, reviewed, 331 - 346.
- Spencer*, Herbert, his Philosophical Works, reviewed, 423 - 475.
- Stevens*, Abel, LL. D., History of the M. E. Church in the United States, 585 - 593.
- Stimpson*, Stephen, his Biography of Girard, 70 - 101.
- Sullivan*, William S., LL. D., Icones Muscorum, 298, 299.
- Tennyson*, Alfred, Enoch Arden, 305 - 307.
- Thackeray*, William M., Vanity Fair, 626.
- Thompson*, Rev. J. P., his Christianity and Emancipation, 21 - 53.
- Tocqueville*, Alexis de, his Democracy in America, 194 - 232.
- Tract Society*, Publications of, 614 - 619.
- Trollope*, T. Adolphus, Lindisfarn Chase, 277, 278.
- Tuscan Sculptors*, 602 - 604.
- Vanity Fair*, Thackeray's, 626.
- Venetian Diplomacy*, the Records of, article on, 54 - 69 - early eminence of Venetian diplomatists, 54, 55 - reports of Venetian ambassadors, 57, 58 - political life at Venice in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, 59 - effect of its system of diplomatic reports on foreign powers, 60, 61 - these reports printed, 61, 62 - the custom of consecrating marriage by the dedication of some learned work, 62 - 64 - the various collections of reports, 64 - 66 - the Florence collection, 66 - 68.
- Voltaire's Residence in England*, 347 - 389 - Voltaire at Sir Isaac Newton's funeral, 347 - his standing in France, 348 - what caused his second imprisonment in the Bastille, 349 - 351 - his wonderful industry, 351, 352 - portrait of Voltaire, 352, 353 - his first day in, and his first impressions of England, 354, 355 - Bolingbroke, 356 - his social investigations, 356 - 359 - his return to Paris, 359, 360 - his second visit to England, 360 - his literary associates, and literary society in London, 361, 362 - Voltaire and Pope, 362, 363 - letter to Pope, 363 - Dean Swift, Edward Falkener, Congreve, 364, 365 - production of La Henriade, 365, 366 - letter from Horace Walpole, 367 - character of La Henriade, 368 - 370 - Voltaire's dedicatory letter to Queen Caroline, 371 - his essay on the civil wars in France, 372 - his views of the religious aspect of English society, 373 - 376 - his opinions of English philosophers, 376, 377 - his estimate of Shakespeare and the English drama, 377, 378 - the French stage of that day, 378, 379 - his reviews of English literature, 381, 382 - his return to France, 382 - influence of his residence in England upon his writings, 382, 383 - his English correspondents, 383 - letter to Falkener, 384, 385 - he makes English manners and habits fashionable in France, 386, 387 - the elements of Newton's philosophy, 387 - his letter to the Marquis d'Argenson, 388, 389 - his observations upon English character, 389.
- Wet Days at Edgewood*, Mitchell's, 626 - 629.
- Woolsey*, Theodore D., Introduction to the Study of International Law, 253 - 259.
- Wordsworth*, article on, 505 - 521 - sketch of his life, 508 - 511 - his contemporaries in literature, 511 - 513 - his poetic style, 513 - 517 - influence of his secluded life upon his writings, 518 - 520 - his morality, 520, 521.
- Yanoski*, his Abolition of Slavery in the Middle Ages, 21 - 53.
- Youmans*, E. L., Correlation and Conservation of Forces, 619 - 622.